

The recent horrific and senseless murder of George Floyd at the hands of Minneapolis police was both shocking and saddening. The killing betrayed our nation's promise of liberty and justice for all. Here at Covenant Woods the aftermath of outrage and unrest we are witnessing has given us pause to reflect, reaffirm and recommit ourselves to the unwavering core values of Covenant Woods. Faith in God, the implicit dignity of our fellow man and caring and kindness for all have defined our organization throughout our history and will continue to guide Covenant Woods into its future. We long for the blessings of life that bring peace, healing, justice and unity.

From Steve Scott, Covenant Woods Director of Spiritual Care:

“As we continue to move through this challenging time, rather than lean on our fear and anger, may our desire for unity and peace take us forward.”

“How very good and pleasant it is when kindred live together in unity!...For there the Lord ordained his blessing, life evermore.”

Psalm 133

John Dwyer, President/CEO
Covenant Woods

Mike Carter, Chairman
Covenant Woods Board of Directors